March, 2011

From the Desk of “El Presidente”

With the onset of March the countdown has started for our 32nd Fun Under the Sun show. It will also be our second year at Fairplex and the Wally Parks NHRA museum. We should be a bit more organized this year from last year, just a matter of getting use to a whole new setting, nothing that time and experience can't fix. Dealing with the Fairplex personal and Tony's group is a real pleasure. It is nice to feel welcomed and not a hindrance to an organization.

Make sure to mark on your calendar for Saturday April 2nd which will be our annual pre show event of Goodie bag stuffing at the AHA club house (My shop). We will start at 10AM and lunch to follow. Also there still will be plenty of Oranges on my trees you can take home with you. A map is in the news letter.

Speaking of the club house I have just started the interior painting (finally!). At Goodie bag stuffing you will see the finished product the shop will be done and ready for moving in. I can then bring Shari's 1968 Mustang in and get started taking it down to the bare body for restoration.

I should write an article about building the shop. The hardest part would be making it short enough. When doing a small project like my shop it sure opens your eyes as to how difficult our governmental agencies can make it for building something. At my work I hear from contractors the horror stories of all the BS that has been placed on them for doing any project any more. A whole sub industry has emerged, that you and I pay for in the cost of building anything. You name it: environmental, historical, biological, ancestral, overboard safety concerns and the best of all is “don't build that here”. Luck ally I only had the planning commission and the building permit division to deal with and they were bad enough. Later on this year I will do a Readers Digest version on the process.

Our next board meeting and show planning will be on March 12th @ 11AM at the San Dimas Sizzler on Arrow Highway. We are still deciding on our GMP award for this year. So if you can make it out and have some lunch, show up and make your voice be heard.

Until next month,

Hasta!

The Editors Rack—Dave Martin

Last weeks tech article prompted one of our members to offer up his talent to me for possible use on my 6-Pack project. I convinced Rick Young to write it up and we'd publish it here also, so here's part 1 of his work with part 2 coming next month. I'll get back to my workup on the 6-Pack after the show so we should have a steady stream of tech articles for the year.

Check out Rick's work. Usually fear is what keeps us from trying something new but as Rick shows, a little ingenuity, along with time, and patience is all that's needed to customize some really nice peices which will make your ride stand out from the norm. Even if you have to toss the first couple of efforts, the end result, AND knowing you did it yourself when someone at a show comments on it is fantastic. Great job Rick!

There's a lot of ideas and great work out there that we've put into our cars. It's nice to share the wealth with others so send me your ideas/articles. If you need help with the words, for a meager fee (just kidding) we can help massage it with you. And you get to see your name in print!

This months newsletter also has directions to Deans house which you'll need for the Goody Bag Stuffing April 2nd so make sure you save it! See you there...

From the Bean Counter—Dave Martin

Not a lot of finance news to report other than I just keep depositing the show receipts as soon as Dean gives them to me. This is always our busy time of the year so it's a short report for me... More when we close the show. See ya there...
